PREACHERS AND THE POLICE

That Caustic Sermon and the Ministers' Meeting Stirs Up the Authorities.

President Hawkins, of the Board of Public Safety, "Explains" the Violations of Law Which Buskirk Witnessed.

The monthly meeting of the Protestant ministers, yesterday, took action concerning the Cleveland Club desecration of Sunday at the Empire Theater. Resolutions were adopted protesting, as follows: Against the shameful and flagrant failure of our municipal authorities in the enforcement of our city statutes, a failure which is fast inundating city statutes, a failure which is last inundating our city with a flood of vice and immorality; that we exceedingly deprecate that outrageous disregard of law and public sentiment which, prevailing in certain high municipal places, found most disgraceful expression in the Sunday night concert given by the Cleveland Club. of this city, on Sunday evening, Feb. 26; that, as this city, on Sunday evening, Feb. 26; that, as pasters of city churches, we do, without regard to partisan politics, individually and emphatically, condemn these guilty violators of law, thus encouraged by faithless officials; and that we call upon all friends of law and order, without regard to political affiliations, to unite, not only in expressions of reprobation, but also demand that for the future these officials fully discharge the duties to which their high trust holds them

Rev. F. E. Dewhurst, of the Plymouth Church, read a paper on "The Family, the Church and the State," as the three units of society. Steps were taken toward the formation of a Bible school on Dr. Gilbert's well-known plans for Sunday-school teach-

The resolutions above and Rev. Mr. Steck's sermon published in the Journal yesterday caused the Board of Public Safety to wince. Mr. Hawkins, president of the board, when seen by a Journal reporter said it is now and has been and always will be the purpose of the Board of Pub-lic Safety to not permit any Sunday per-formances or entertainments of any kind at any of the theaters if the performances are in violation of the law. At the time the Empire Theater was opened, or very soon thereafter, there was a Sunday night performance, given under the guise or superintendent of police to make arrests of the parties carrying on this entertainment. That entertainment was being given by the Military Band. The superintendent ar-rested the leader of the band, and charged him with violating the Sunday law. The case was tried before the police judge, and the court held that there had been no violations of law because the person charged was not following his usual vocation. The defendant was discharged, but this case was appealed by the city to the Superior Court, and is now pending, it being the purpose and intention of the city to make this a

Mr. Hawkins further said that directions had been given the superintendent of police to either go in person to any and all Sunday performances, or to send other officers, and if there were any violations of law to make arrests of the parties. In the Sunday night performance of Feb. 26, referred to in the newspapers, the superintendent went in person, and made a report to the chairman of the board that, in his opinion, there could not be a case made against any of the performers because the court had held that it must be proven that those taking part in the performance were engaged in their usual vocations, and that in the performance spoken of all were citizens of Indianapolis, who made their living by other means and were none of them professional performers. The superintendent of police, he said, was present at that performance in his

GRAND-"THE MIDDLEMAN." Few dramatic performances so satisfactory in every respect have ever been presented to an In disnapolis audience as "The Middleman." The play, whose plot has been previously outlined in the Journal, is simple in construction, but it offers some novel features and shows that adjustment of good and evil and exact measuring out of justice that pleases the popular taste. True worth receives its proper reward and recognition, and the villain is duly punished. It is an emotional drama with an infusion of humor and several scenes that are intensely dramatic. Mr. Willard takes the part of Cyrus Blenkarn, an old potter and the inventor of a glaze which has enriched the manufacturer, Mr. Chandler, who bought his patent for a trifle, and has brought prosperity to the town. The old man is single minded and thoroughly absorbed in his work, and the at-tempt to rediscover the secret of a certain famous old make of pottery. The rendi-tion of this character left nothing to be desired. Only great actors can represent nature and the verdict of every one who saw this presentation must have been that it was true to life-it was life itself. The earnestness of the artisan who loves his work for its own sake, and the enthusiasm and mental concentration of the inventor were combined in way that won admiration at once. Blenkarn's forgetfulness of place and surroundings, his neglect of his dinner, his absent-mindedness in the presence of distinguished visitors to his humble some when the condition of his kiln weighed upon his consciousness, his dazed manner when roused from his absorption—all these were delineated with an accuracy and delicacy of touch that showed a master of his art. When finally the old man was informed of the betrayal of his favorite daughter by the son of his employer, his shame, and anger, and despair were as vividly portrayed. The strongest dramatic action is in the scene where, after tears and humble entreaties to the man who refuses to right his daughter's wrong he prays to heaven that justice may be granted him. It is a scene where emotion might be easily overstrained, but there is a perfect adjustment of proportions, and the impression conveyed is that of a natural outburst of passion and of a reserve power on the part of the actor. The setting of the third act is highly realistic, showing a pottery with four huge kilns in full blast. This act might be shortened with benefit to the movement of the play, but the in-terest is well maintained. The long-sought-for secret is discovered here and great is the joy of the potter, whose hope is that with the wealth gained from it he may avenge the disgrace and supposed death of the daughter. In the closing act the missing daughter reappears with her once false lover, now her husband, the employer who had wronged Blankarn, now reduced to want begs his aid, is first denounced and then forgiven, and all ends well. The thought must have suggested itself forcibly to many of the audience that, while the drama was well enough in its way, it is unworthy the powers of so strong and finished an actor. One who can show such tragic force and so skillfully delineate character is certainly adapted to a higher class of plays.

Mr. Willard's support ably supplemented his efforts. Miss Marie Burroughs's reputation as an interpreter of emotional roles was well sustained. She is not a great actress, but she is pleasing, and her Mary Blenkarn was played with much delicacy of feeling and artistic judgment. F. H. Tyler, as Jesse Pegg, won many plaudits, as did also Harry Cane as Batty Todd, the "Managing Man," Royce Carleton presented Jose h Chandler in an admirable even greeted with cheers, an unusually demonstrative proceeding for Indianapolis theatergoers. Every seat in the house was occupied and many regrets were expressed that but one performance was to be given here by this company.

ENGLISH'S-"HAZEL KIRKE."

A fair-sized audience greeted Effie Ellsler and her company at English's last night, the play being the well-known and enduring "Hazel Kirke." No play has ever received such homage from the amusement-loving public as "Hazel Kirke." It is such a picture of life that touches every heart. The humor is so bright and innocent and the story so perfectly told that the listener becomes fascinated and the play is indelibly impressed upon the memory of every one who witnesses it. Effle Ellsler is the ideal Hazel, and her oft-repeated renditions of the role have not detracted peated renditions of the role have not detracted from her excellent conception, but rather made it more elegant and artistic. The veteran C. W. Couldock, who stands now almost alone as a representative of the eminent actors of the past generation, is still the same magnificent and incomparable Dunstan Kirke. Both he and Miss Elisler had a splendid welcome by the audience, and the great domestic play was received with the old time interest and enthusiasm. The company is a thoroughly competent and praiseworthy one. The bill will be repeated to-night.

PARK THEATER-"THE FAST MAIL." Mr. Lincoln J. Carter's well-known melodrama "The Fast Mail," a play many times seen in this city, drew audiences that filled the Park to overflowing at both performances yesterday. The piece has various features that combine to give it popularity. Its story has interest in itself and is ingeniously worked out, while the mechanical effects introduced are as ingenious as they are realistic. The principal one of these is the railroad train flying across the stage, which is very cleverly managed, and the explosion of a steamboat, which is sufficiently "scary" to please even the most exacting "gallery god." A view in the last act of Niagara Falls, is particularly picturesque and pretty. These various scenes were much applauded yesterday, and the acting came in for its share of like commendation. The company is a capable one, as good, in many respects, as the one that presented the play at English's last season. Gustave Neuville plays Walter West with manliness and force, Edwin Gardner is the Sleuth, J. J. Morris the Philip Martin, and the other leading parts are in the hands of Miss Edith Arnold, a capable actress, Miss Ida Thomas and Charles Metzger. "The Fast Mail" will run all week at the Park, with matinees daily.

EMPIRE-HILL'S NOVELTIES. Gus Hill's World of Novelties, which opened the Empire yesterday to two enthusiastic houses, and which made a hit on their former visit, some six months ago, is one of the deserving combinations of the kind on the road. An extended notice is entirely unnecessary, as the merits of the different people were thoroughly discussed during the early part of the season. Matinee to-day at 2.

The sale of seats for DeWolf Hopper's performance of "Wang," at English's the first part of next week, will begin next Thursday morning. Evans & Hoey, who are easily in the lead of farce-comedy entertainers, will present at the Grand, the latter part of this week, "Series 9" of their perennial success, "A Parlor Match," in which there is much that is new in the way of songs and specialties, including several new songs by Mr. Hoey.

Herrmann, the magician, the only entertainer of his kind who comes to Indianapolis nowadays, pays his annual visit to the Grand to-night and dednesday matinee and evening. Herrmann is clever and amusing and the public recognition of this has made him an established favorite. of this has made him an established favorite. One of Herrmann's strong points is his ability to entertain his audience by talking to them. He is quick and bright of speech and this not only serves his own purpose as a sleight-of-hand performer, but keeps everybody in good humor. The programme to be given here includes two news illusions, "Yakoyo," the Chinese mystery, and "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay Done to Death." An entertainment of especial interest to ladies and children will be given at the matinee to morrow.

BOARD OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Changes in the Police Force-Charges Against a Fireman-Bills Paid.

The Board of Public Safety, at its regular meeting yesterday, granted special powers to Burton H. Morwood for the Boys' Home and Employment Association, at No. 139 North Delaware street, James House and Garfield Park. The resignation of Patrick Davis from the regular force was received and accepted and Patrick Curran appointed in his stead. Charges of drunkenness while on duty were preferred by Chief Webster against James Brannan, captain of engine company No. 3, and Samuel Null, driver of the same company. The charges will be investigated and a hearing given Thursday afternoon. Fireman Elisha Keepers was granted a leave of absence for thirty days, a substitute to be employed at full pay.

Chief Webster reported favorably upon the petition for the location of a fire box at the corner of Lexington and State avenues. The petition went over for future action by the board. A communication was received from the Merchant force, asking that in the future applications for that force be investigated by a committee of three, appointed by the board, and that this committee have the power to investigate complaints and report to the board before final action is taken upon the complaint. The recommendation was received and the coming of the board. Bills from the various departments were audited as follows: Police pay roll, $6,-403.24; station house account, $154.76; fire force pay roll, $8,546.87; fire force account. $280.55; office expense account, $75; total, $17,545.81.

Reports for February from the heads of various departments were approved as follows: Police Superintendent Colbert, total number of arrests, 271; whites 207, blacks 64; males 242, females 29; twenty years and under. 47; stolen property recovered. $627.76. Fire Chief Webster, total alarms, 27; loss $2,680; insurance, $39,400; expenditures, $1,941,47.

Reporter's Modest Marriage. Annia Burk, police reporter for the Sentinel, and Miss Cora Wilden, of Coshocton, O., were married yesterday afternoon by 'Squire Daniels at the home of the groom's mother, on North Pennsylvania street. Without a moment's warning to any but the persons interested, Mr. Burk quietly slipped away from his duties at the Statehouse about 4 o'clock, long enough to have the knot securely tied and then returned to his work. He made a brave effort to appear unconcerned, but it was very apparent that the Mr. Burk who returned was not the one that left and as rumors had been affoat for several days, it did not take his friends long to conclude that the rumor had been fulfilled. He pleaded coulty and accepted congratulations. guilty and accepted congratulations.

Constable After Fees.

Harry Rosenthal and Oliver Bean, the two hack drivers who participated in the fist fight at Brighton Beach Saturday night, were arrested Sunday night by Constable Sorters, and gave bond in the sum of $100 each for their appear-ance for trial. Both pleaded guilty before 'Squire Daniels to assault and battery, were fined $1 and costs each. Neither of them seemed to have been much hurt.

The Superior Court, in general term, yesterday affirmed the decision of the court in special term in the suit of William H. Kline against the Citizens' Street-railroad Company. Kline was a passenger upon the Brightwood line and was assaulted by the driver with a switch-hook, because, the driver says, he was drunk and refused to pay his fare. The case was tried in Room 1, and judgment given against the company for $4,000. The case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The decision in the case of Gaylord M, Jackson against the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis & Chicago Railway Company was also affirmed and an appeal prayed to the Supreme Court. The case is an action in damages for the death of a child. The infant child of Jackson was killed at a watering station on the Panhandle in Ohio while the mother and child were on a visit to her father, the keeper of the station. The child, during the absence of its mother, had crawled upon the track and was killed by a train. The case came up before Judge Walker, who sustained a demurrer to the complaint on the grounds of insufficient facts, and gave judgment against the

The court affirmed the decision of Judge Harper in the case of Sadie Dean against William P. Brock and others. This was a case the final determination of which was watched with considerable interest by real-estate agents of the city, as one of the points presented was the question of the liability of an agent in damages for injuries received by a tenant on account of the defective condition of premises let by such agent. Sadie Dean, the plaintiff, rented, through R. F. Catterson & Son's agency, certain property upon South Pennsylvania street. She fell through the floor of an outbuilding, and sued the Cattersons and Brock, the owner, for damages, alleging that the building was old and decayed and defectively constructed. The Cattersons filed a demurrer to the complaint on the sufferer, the physicians have failed to recog-Harper sustained the demurrer, holding that a real-estate agent is not liable in damages for injuries received by a tenant. The plaintiff refused to modify her complaint, and the case was dismissed as to Brock for failure to prosecute. The plaintiff then ap- | trembling, muscles weak and the whole body pealed to the general term.

The appeal in the case of Ellen Bush against Michael Bush was dismissed for failure to prosecute. Ellen Bush sued Michael for divorce, and a decree was granted by Judge Walker, and the defendant ordered to pay $8 per month towards the support of the three children, the custody of whom was granted the mother. Bush failed to pay the amount and was cited by Judge Bartholomew to appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. Failing to show cause he was ordered committed to jail for sixty days. He appealed to the general term and was released from custody pending the final settlement. The dismissal of the appeal tempt, but will not be rearrested unless so ordered by the court.

Charge to the Grand Jury. The grand jury convened yesterday, and Judge Cox called their attention especially to the law relating to grave robbing, prize fighting and wife and child desertion. He called their attention to the recent grave-robberies, and the need of investigation into them, and the penalties provided for such offenses. The statute provides that any person who, without due process of law or the consent of the relatives, disturbs or takes from any grave the body or part of the body therein shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in the State prison not less than three nor more than ten years. For knowingly concealing any body so taken for the purpose of dissection, or for buying or receiving, by gift or otherwise. any body so taken, the penalty is imprisonment from one to three years. The attention of the jury was called to the fact that a prize fight had recently taken place in a blic hall, in the presence of the police, and it was recommended that they look into this question.

Late Arrests by Police. Mike Riley was arrested at the corner of Maryand and Illinois streets last night by officers Corban and Thorne for drunkenness. J. F. Canada attempted to take the prisoner away from the officers, and struck at Corhan, who dodged the blow and returned it with force sufficient to knock Canada down. He was taken into custody for interfering with an officer. Charles Jackson, colored, was arrested flast night by officers Wilson and Leppert for carry-ing concealed weapons. He had in his posses-sion a bunch of fifteen door keys of various sizes, and is thought to be a crook.

What Does It Mean in This Age of Civilization?

Are We Becoming a Nation of Nervous Wrecks?

The Warnings are Plain and Unmistakable.

Heed Them Now or It May Be Fatally Too Late.

Hundreds of thousands of people are nervous thousands upon thousands suffer from mental exhaustion, brain fatigue, weak and irritable nerves, sleeplessness, gloomy depression of mind and exhaustion of nerve power, especially at this season of the year. They do not realize the dangerous gravity of their condition nor the fearful result of neglect of these symptoms. They have perhaps consulted many physicians who have ascribed their disease to any and every cause but the right one; they have adopted many modes of treatment, but all alike have failed to afford a cure. And why? Because, like has fastened its clutches upon the very life prin-

It is nerve and brain exhaustion which makes the brain tired, the arm nerveless, the limbs without strength, energy or ambition. It is loss of nerve and vital power which is slowly but surely sapping the very life itself, and unless help is sought from the right source, the end will be shattered nerves, insanity, with softening of the brain, nervous prostration, heart failure, paralysis or premature death.

The question comes home to every heart with keenest anxiety-is there a source of help?

The answer is positive and convincing. Nature in her boundless mercy has provided a baim for every ill, and fresh from the bosom of the earth yields the nerve strengthening, nerve invigorating and health restoring vegetable medicines puts the case in statu quo, and Bush again which certainly and unfailingly cure these terri-rests under the order of the court for con- ble diseases.
